

Town Hall Meetings

envisioncachevalley.com

What's important to you?

- How should we get around?
- What types of communities will best house future generations?
- What lands should be conserved?
- What best captures the values of Cache Valley residents?

Your leaders need to know what you think.

In February and March, more than 1,600 Cache Valley residents participated in an ongoing conversation about anticipated growth. Their preferences are captured in four "growth scenarios." Scenarios are potential pictures of the future that address growth—including housing, transportation, land conservation, and employment—in different ways. At the town hall meetings, Cache Valley residents will learn about the four growth scenarios and their potential impacts on air quality, infrastructure costs, water consumption, housing affordability, and other measures that affect quality of life. Feedback will be used as the basis for the draft Cache Valley Vision, a set of principles and implementation suggestions to serve as a voluntary guide for long-term growth decisions.

Envision Cache Valley Survey

A new feedback survey will be online May 19 - June 12. Complete the survey at www.envisioncachevalley.com.

There's more to talk about.
